VERSION 2 CHANGELOG · MAY 2026

How to read this

This is the standalone delta document for version 2 of Virginia Deans and Donahoes. It exists so a reader who has already read v1 can see in five minutes exactly what version 2 adds, corrects, or retracts — without re-reading the full ~14,500-word whitepaper.

Inside the v2 whitepaper itself, substantial new findings are marked in soft blue (the same #1a4d7a blue as the document's link color) so they're visible-but-quiet on the page. This document collects those marked findings plus the underlying research that justified them.

The conventions:

- Resolved or substantially extended = a v1 open question that v2 closed, or a generation that v2 added to a line. These are the load-bearing additions.
- Corrected = a v1 claim that v2 changed. Some are factual (e.g. William Penn → William Patrick Donahoe), some are interpretive (e.g. Donahoe Civil War service: Union → Confederate).
- Carried forward unchanged = v1 findings that v2's research confirmed or did not touch. Listed for completeness.
- Still open at v2 = the carry list to v3. Each item names the path to closure.

Two new primary sources powered most of v2: Susan Elzey's autobiography The Story of My Life (189 pages, updated every five years), and Brady's 3 May 2020 oral history with Mary Ellen Donahoe Dean. Plus fourteen parallel documentary research streams that worked the deep-line questions v1 left open.

Resolved or substantially extended in v2

The Bull line now reaches 1666 — 289 years of continuous family ground

V1 dead-ended at Elijah "Eli" Bull (b. ~1748 Accomack) because the FamilySearch tree carried no parents for him. V2 closed the gap: Tobias Bull I (d. 1687) → Tobias Bull II (d. 1761, will dated 4 May 1751) → Daniel Bull (d. 1782) → Elijah Bull (~1748). The patriarchal precursor surfaces in John Bulluck and Thomas Bulluck on the 1666 Northampton tithables — the surname-shift Bulluck → Bull characteristic of late-seventeenth-century Eastern Shore Virginia. The geographic anchor: Tobias II's 1751 will deeded son Benjamin "200 acres on James Walker's Branch" — colonial alternate name for Pungoteague Creek, which locals called "Bull Run" precisely because of this family. The Bull family held the same Pungoteague Creek ground from at least 1666 through 1955 — 289 years. No other branch of Susan or Paulette's pedigree shows that depth on a single piece of land.

Research file 30. Sources: Carey's three published Bull genealogies, Nottingham's Accomack tithables, Tobias I 1687 will, Tobias II 1751 will, Daniel Bull 1782 will.

The Dean line now reaches 1568 — six generations beyond v1, and a second 1637 Pilgrim immigrant V1 dead-ended at Nathaniel Dean (b. 1693, Connecticut), with no parents linked. V2 walked it back six generations: Nathaniel Dean (1693 Stonington CT) → James Deane (?–1725, Stonington blacksmith → first Plainfield town clerk 1699) → Walter Deane (1612–1693), who arrived Boston aboard the Speedwell in April 1637 from South Chard, Somerset, England, alongside his brother John. → William Deane (1568–1634, South Chard).

The implication corrects v1's framing of the Pilgrim ancestry: Susan has TWO documented Great Migration 1637 immigrant ancestors, not just one. Anthony Fisher Sr. on the Rose (26 June 1637) was already in v1; Walter Deane on the Speedwell (April 1637) is new in v2. The two ships arrived at Boston roughly two months apart. The 1716 marriage of Nathaniel Dean to Johanna Fisher therefore merged two 1637 Pilgrim-stock founder lines, one generation removed from each immigrant.

The Dean line is now the deepest documented surname line in Brady's tree at roughly 460 years of continuous documentation from South Chard, Somerset, England (1568) through Danville, Virginia today.

Research file 27. Sources: Barbour Collection of Connecticut vital records; Anderson's Great Migration series; Stonington and Plainfield town records.

The Caylor line traces to a documented 1767 Pennsylvania-German immigrant

V1 noted that Lucinda Caylor (b. 1845, m. William Patrick Donahoe) was the source of the Caylor middle name in the family and that "Caylor" was German Palatine-derived (Köhler / Kayler), but did not trace the line to its immigrant. V2 resolved it: Johannes Kohler arrived at Philadelphia on the ship Britannia (Captain Alexander Hardy, Rotterdam → Portsmouth → Philadelphia) on 25 October 1767, indentured for approximately four years. The migration corridor: Philadelphia 1767 → southeastern Pennsylvania → the Shenandoah Valley by 1780 → southwest Virginia (Washington, Wythe, Russell, Tazewell Counties) by 1800 → eastern Kentucky (Floyd, Wayne) by 1830 → Cabell-Wayne West Virginia by 1860. Lucinda Caylor (b. 1845) fits the fourth-generation pattern exactly — the Cabell-Wayne WV Caylor cluster of mid-nineteenth-century Appalachia. Original family religion was almost certainly German Reformed or Schwarzenau Brethren, transitioning to Methodist or Baptist in later Appalachian generations.

Research file 28. Sources: Strassburger and Hinke, Pennsylvania German Pioneers vol. 1; Caylor and Brown, Johannes Kohler's Family.

Hugh Casslin Donaghe Sr.'s 1809 will pulled

V1 noted Hugh Casslin Donaghe Sr. (b. ~1728, d. 1809 Augusta County VA) was a substantial Augusta County landholder near Naked Creek but did not pull his will. V2 has the will via Chalkley's Augusta County abstract: signed 25 June 1805, codicil 26 February 1807, probated 25 December 1809. Wife Anne (née Usher), predeceasing him by 1809. Children Elisabeth Donaghe Campbell, John Donaghe, Sarah Donaghe, James Donaghe (deceased by 1805), William W. Donaghe (an infant in 1805). Grandson Hugh Donaghe (son of the deceased son James). Executors Archibald Stuart (the Federalist-era Virginia elite) and son John Donaghe. The 1807 codicil rebukes Robert Campbell's family. Hugh's Augusta County land patents elsewhere in the record show 1,500-plus acres on Naked Creek plus 1,000 acres at the Mouth of the Miami River, Ohio (purchased from James Culbertson's 1788 estate). Hugh was a slaveholder by 1770 — confirmed by a Charles Pickett mortgage that included "slaves and furniture" — though the 1809 will is silent on enslaved people, leaving the 1809-status question open pending the 1810 estate inventory.

A separate v2 finding: Hugh was stabbed by John Dunn, an indentured servant of David Laird, on 21 March 1765; Dunn received 39 lashes. Hugh accumulated more than 160 Augusta County lawsuits across his life.

Research file 39. Sources: Chalkley's Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement in Virginia; Augusta County Will Books; Pickett-Donaghe mortgage 1770.

Rev. Stephen Alexander Donahoe's first ministerial appointment documented

V1 left the question of Rev. Stephen Alexander Donahoe's denomination, ordination, and charges open. Susan's autobiography (p. 52) confirmed he was the family's Methodist minister. V2's documentary work landed his first known appointment: Methodist Episcopal Church South pastor at Kanawha Falls, Fayette District, Western Virginia Conference, conference year 1891–92. Documented in the 1891 General Conference compilation Minutes of the Annual Conferences of the MEC South. The conference session was held at Parkersburg, West Virginia, 16–22 September 1891, with Bishop Granbery presiding. He is listed under Question 2 ("remaining on trial"), implying admission before 1891 (most likely 1890). His charge had 105 members. Presiding Elder: C. H. Dowell.

The geography is decisive. He married Leona Rollyson on 30 June 1891 at Gauley Bridge, Fayette County, West Virginia — four river miles upstream from Kanawha Falls. He was sitting on his own charge at the time of his marriage. This anchors his early ministry to the upper Kanawha River valley in 1890–1892.

Read farm located: 10084 Rushton Rd, Green Oak Township, Livingston County, MI

V1 noted that Editha Read Dean's brother Allie ran a dairy farm on Rushton Rd, Michigan, but did not locate it. V2 has the farm at 10084 Rushton Rd, Green Oak Township, Livingston County, Michigan, between 9 Mile and 10 Mile Roads, on Lake Nichwagh. The farmhouse is on the National Register of Historic Places (1972) as the Alonzo W. Olds House / Albert Read House. Allie's wife was Harriet Driver. Their children: Loren Albert Read (1928–2009, Phillips Funeral Home, South Lyon), Lois A. Read Smith (b. ~1932, m. Charles "Chuck" L. Smith), Leslie M. Read (1934–2021). The Florida connection in Mary Ellen's oral history is now refined to Webster Travel Park, Webster, Sumter County, Florida — a snowbird RV community, not permanent migration.

Joseph Sables Bull's two marriages and Susie Elizabeth Bull as 1946-55 grantor candidate

V1 treated Mary Ellen's grandmother Mary Eliza Rogers as Joseph Sables Bull's only wife. V2 found that Joseph had two marriages: first to Fanny L. Rogers (m. 5 November 1879 at Bobtown VA; d. 14 December 1893 at Accomack — daughter of A. M. Rogers), second to Mary "Mamie" Eliza Rogers (m. 25 March 1896 at Onancock; d. 17 November 1946). Two distinct Rogers women, possibly cousins. Documented children include Arthur Clyde Bull (1880–1911) and Susie Elizabeth Bull (1885–1963) — both half-siblings to Fannye, both children of Joseph's first marriage. Susie Elizabeth Bull lived through the entire 1946–1955 farm-loss window (Mary Eliza's 1946 death through the 1955 Eastern Shore Produce Exchange dissolution) and is the strongest-probability grantor on the still-missing Bull-farm parcel-transfer deed.

Susan's autobiography opened the family-memory record

Susan Dean Elzey's The Story of My Life I update every five years (189 pages, March 2024) was loaded into the project corpus and surfaced multiple new facts:

- Stephen Alexander Donahoe was the Methodist minister (autobiography p. 52: “Even though his father was a Methodist minister, Dada had trouble behaving in church even as an adult”). Closes the v1 open question about whose Methodist ministry anchored Mary Ellen’s lifelong Methodism.
- Paul “Dada” Donahoe worked Civil Service at Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point, North Carolina before retirement to Danville. New geography for the family.
- Uncle Billy Donahoe had Down Syndrome, attended the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind age 4–6 (~1939–41), lived with Mary Ellen and Del 13 years after Fannye’s June 1982 death, died Alzheimer’s October 1995.
- Joe (Joel Caylor) Donahoe + wife Nancye + sons Harper and Stephen identified as Mary Ellen’s Donahoe-side cousin family in Danville — likely holders of family Bibles, photographs, papers.
- Paul “Riley Kidd” named after a committee in the room when he was born. Paul gave piano lessons to Shirley Temple Black’s daughter Linda Susan Agar on the Eastern Shore in the late 1940s/early 1950s.
- Mary Ellen and Del Dean’s family lived on Montague Street, Danville in fall 1963, when Susan, Paulette, and Mary Ellen stayed with Paul and Fannye for two months between Del’s transfer to Germany and the family’s own ship voyage.

Mary Ellen’s 3 May 2020 oral history opened the Read inheritance record

Brady recorded Mary Ellen’s oral history three years before her death. The recording surfaced material that does not appear in the FamilySearch tree or any web source:

- Editha Read had a son Alvin out of wedlock before her marriage to Roy Franklin Dean. Editha’s parents Albert and Addie Read excluded her from their inheritance entirely as a result. Alvin did not learn of his illegitimacy or the inheritance exclusion until after Editha’s death in 1980, at which point he was very upset. The family had kept the circumstances secret from him throughout his life. The inheritance rift generated lasting hard feelings between Del Dean’s siblings and Allie’s children (Loren, Lois, Leslie); the rift between Editha and Allie himself was less severe.
- Roy Dean collected indigenous arrowheads from the Read farm over decades. At some point, probably mid-twentieth century, the collection was taken to the University of Michigan and assessed; the assessment reportedly identified one arrowhead as very valuable. The collection is currently in the possession of the Smallwood children (Brady’s generation).

- Pop's first cousins Loren Read (m. Helen), Lois Read (m. Chuck), Leslie Read (m. another Lois) all named.
- Editha is pronounced with a short 'e' (like "edible"), not "Ee-die-tha."

7XMOM column corpus search surfaced five high-value items

Susan's 957-column 7XMOM corpus (2009–2026, Danville Register & Bee) was searched in v2 for deep-tree references. Five items worth noting:

- Mary Ellen was WAC (Women's Army Corps), not WAVES. Susan's words: "She herself was a WAC until she got married, then pregnant with me, and had to leave the Army because pregnancy was a no-no back then."
- Fannye's full middle name was Rogers (Fannye Rogers Bull) — confirms the Bull/Rogers naming pattern in this branch.
- Susan's family-tradition reading of the Caylor surname is Norman-English, not German Palatine (the documented origin). Susan: "actually a Norman name and was used in England after the Norman Conquest in 1088." V2 records both honestly; the paper record is unambiguous.
- A live Christmas/Thanksgiving cactus directly descended via cuttings from the original plant the Read ancestors carried with them from England in 1852 sits in Susan's Danville living room today. Same 1852 date as the Read family England-to-Ann-Arbor immigration. A living botanical artifact of the Atlantic crossing.
- Aunt Harriet (Driver) Read published two volumes of poetry — useful confirmation of her identity and a possible source if any printed copies survive.

Corrected in v2

Donahoe Civil War service: Confederate, not Union

V1 speculated that mountain Scots-Irish families were Union-sympathizing, and read the Donahoes that way. V2 overturned the speculation. Brady's Donahoes were Confederate Scots-Irish, not Union. Alexander L. Donahoo (collateral ancestor) served in the 34th Virginia Cavalry Battalion (Witcher's Battalion), Co. A, and the 16th Virginia Cavalry, Co. H — both Confederate, both raised in Wayne County WV/VA and the southwestern WV–Kentucky-border zone. William Patrick

Donahoe (b. 1842, prime military age 1861–65) almost certainly served Confederate; his specific compiled service record is queued as a NARA pull. The post-war federal Test-Oath disfranchisement worked against this family, not for it.

Research file 29.

William Patrick (not Penn) Donahoe

V1 carried the name as “William Penn (or Patrick) Donahoe” because both spellings appear in the FamilySearch tree. V2’s deep-line walk settled it: William Patrick is the documented form. “Penn” was a transcription drift on a single FamilySearch profile.

Research file 29.

James H. Donahoe is Hugh Casslin’s GRANDSON, not son

V1 recorded the line as Hugh Casslin Donaghe Sr. (1728–1809) → James H. Donahoe (1806). V2’s deep-line walk surfaced an intermediate generation: Hugh M. Donnahoe (1783–1845). So the line is Hugh Casslin → Hugh M. → James H. James H. Donahoe is Hugh Casslin’s grandson. Susan’s relationship to Hugh Casslin is 5th great-grandfather in v2 (revised from v1’s 4th).

Research file 29.

Donahoe migration corridor: Augusta → Eastern KY → Wayne WV (not eastern WV mountain counties)

V1 framed the corridor speculatively as Augusta →

Pendleton/Highland/Bath/Greenbrier/Pocahontas → Fayette WV. V2 overturned the speculation.

Donahoes show essentially zero presence in the eastern WV mountain counties across 1810–1891 (one 1832 Bath County indenture is the only hit). The actual corridor runs west and south through Kentucky before doubling back east into West Virginia at the Big Sandy: Augusta County (1809 Hugh Casslin death) → eastern Kentucky (Big Sandy / Lawrence-Greenup-Floyd, ~1820s–1840s) → Wayne County VA/WV (by 1850 census) → Wayne / Cabell WV → Fayette WV (Stephen Alexander’s 1891 marriage at Gauley Bridge) → Jackson WV (Paul’s 1896 birth at Ripley) → Eastern Shore VA (Paul’s 1926 marriage to Fannye Bull).

Research file 29.

Coulbourne English origin: Yorkshire (Pontefract) candidate stronger than Somerset visitation

V1 reproduced the 1623 Visitation of Somerset pedigree (Wythehill → John → Thomas → William of Braton, m. Mary Topp) for the Coulbournes, citing Harleian Society Vol. XI, p. 26, and noted the chain was “tradition, not verified.” V2 confirmed the visitation entry exists exactly as cited (verbatim) verification). But the bridge from the Somerset visitation Coulbournes to the Maryland immigrant is not proven, and a competing English origin is currently better-supported:

1. The Pontefract, Yorkshire parish register records a baptism: William, son of Roger, on 2 February 1620.
2. The Maryland plantation Col. William named Pomfret is the colloquial English form of Pontefract, Yorkshire.
3. Y-DNA testing on direct male-line Coulbourne descendants returns haplotype I-A18256 — the Norse / Danelaw signature, characteristic of Yorkshire, not Somerset.
4. The Maryland local-history Coulbourn essay concedes the English origin is unconfirmed.

For v2 the honest framing is: Col. William Coulbourne is Susan's documented 9th great-grandfather. His English origin is genuinely unknown. Pontefract / Yorkshire is the better-supported candidate based on the plantation name and the Y-DNA evidence; the Somerset visitation chain is real as an antiquarian pedigree but cannot be proved to connect to the Maryland immigrant.

Donaghe pre-1635 in Co. Down: clean negative

V1 read the Donahoe surname as plausibly Plantation-era Ulster Scots Lowland Presbyterian. V2 ran a targeted query of every surviving Co. Down primary source — the 1630 Muster Roll of Ulster (PRONI D1759/3C/1), the Hamilton Manuscripts 1867 publication, the Clanbrassil Estate Rent Roll 1681, the Earl of Antrim Estate Papers, the Books of Survey and Distribution, the Pender 1659 census-substitute, and the Presbyterian Historical Society of Ireland's Kilkeel/Mourne Kirk Session catalogs. The result was a clean negative. No "Donaghe / Donaghy / Donachy / Donachie" surname appears in any of those sources for Co. Down. This inverts v1's probability stack. The Plantation-era Ulster-Scots Lowland reading drops from "most plausible" to about 25%, and the Catholic Mac Donnchaidh from Tyrone/Derry migrating into Magennis Mourne reading rises to about 50%. Definitive resolution would require a Y-DNA Big-Y test on a male-line Donahoe descendant.

Research file 31.

Pilgrim-stock immigrant on Susan's father's side: TWO Great Migration ancestors, not one

V1 noted the Great Migration ancestry on Brady's tree was on the Fisher line (Anthony Fisher Sr., the Rose, June 1637). V2 added a second, on the Dean line: Walter Deane on the Speedwell, April 1637. (See "The Dean line" above.)

Carried forward unchanged from v1

The following v1 findings were either confirmed by v2's research or not touched:

- Col. William Coulbourne (1630–1689) as Susan's 9th great-grandfather; Pomfret Plantation, Quaker host to George Fox, 1687 Nanticoke treaty negotiator. His English origin moves to "uncertain" in v2 (see above) but his identity and Maryland career are unchanged.
 - Richard Kellam II "of Occahannock" (1618–1703) as Susan's 8th great-grandfather; Primrose immigrant 1635; bought land from "King Tabutiabum of Nandau" 1647; will probated 1703.
 - Capt. William H. Parker (~1717–1784) as Susan's 6th great-grandfather; Revolutionary War militia captain, Accomack County, sworn in 30 July 1777 — primary DAR Patriot candidate.
 - John Floyd I "of Hog Island" (~1640–1687) — Welsh-origin Northampton County immigrant 1660. Nathaniel Floyd (1601–<1674) — Welsh, Bona Nova arrival 1624/5.
 - Anthony Fisher Sr. (1591–1671) — Great Migration on the Rose 1637; signed Dedham Covenant #36. The Fisher chain back to John Fisher of Wingfield, Suffolk (1465–1523).
 - Mary "Molly" Bays/Baze Woodrum as Susan's 7th great-grandmother. Family-Bible Native (Monacan) ancestor per Dr. Jacob Woodrum's Bible (Tennessee), with the family-tradition Mowhemencho birthplace recorded in the Marjorie Fluor Moore 1983 memorandum.
 - The Famine-Irish Daly + Donovan + Welsh-origin Arundel line. Helena Daly's parents John Daly (1841 Ballincolly Cork) + Ellen Donovan (1844 Durrus Cork). Welsh William Arundel (1775 Pembrokeshire).
 - The Eastern Shore Civil War occupation experience — Lockwood expedition 1861, oath-of-allegiance system, no documented Bull/Kellam/Rogers/Boggs/Floyd/Garrison enlistment in either army. The 1860 Slave Schedule line-check remains an open v3 task.
 - The Shawnee Heritage retraction — the four named "Native ancestors" (Sharp As Fox John Spiller, Dancing Waters Moon Spiller, Delaware Indian Fivekiller, Water) plus Solomon John "Rappahanno..." Kimbrough and Mary Elizabeth Spiller remain documented FamilySearch fraud (book series by Don Greene & Noel Swartz).
 - The cousin-only relationships to Lt. Col. Richard Cocke (2nd cousin 12× removed), Joane Pierce, John Smith of Stanley Hundred, Capt. Adam Thoroughgood, Sarah Offley, Maj. Gen. John Custis II Esq. — none direct ancestors of Susan; the v1 retractions stand.
 - The Maynard 3rd Baronet retraction — the FamilySearch fraud-flag stands; Henry Maynard (1681–1738) is a real ancestor without a verified baronetcy.
 - The Floyd nobility graft retraction — "Sir John Theophelus Floyd / Lady Mary Veriar of Queen Elizabeth's Court" remains documented FamilySearch fraud above Nathaniel Floyd.

Still open at v2 — the v3 carry list

The v3 path closes in two clusters: (a) Brady's logged-in browser tasks (FamilySearch / Ancestry, no archival travel required), and (b) targeted documentary pulls.

Brady's logged-in browser cluster: - Lt. Samuel Black DAR direct-descent verification (FamilySearch View Relationship calculator) - 1860 Slave Schedule line-check on Bull / Kellam / Rogers / Boggs / Floyd / Garrison surnames in Accomack and Northampton (Ancestry / FamilySearch) - Del Dean's siblings — full enumeration from Roy Franklin Dean's FSID 2WFL-B1C profile - Remaining Joseph Saples Bull children — 1900–1940 Accomack censuses + 1946 Mary Eliza will

Targeted documentary pulls: - Mary Ellen (WAC) and Del (Korean War Army) NPRC service records — file SF-180 (turnaround weeks/months) - Hugh Casslin Donaghe Sr.'s 1809 manuscript will + 1810 estate inventory at Augusta County (Chalkley is an abstract; manuscript would name enslaved people and specific land tracts) - William Patrick Donahoe Confederate compiled service record (NARA pull) - Stephen Alexander Donahoe's post-1892 Methodist appointments + 1935 death record (West Virginia Wesleyan Methodist Archives — email Brett Miller) - U of M arrowhead assessment record (Bentley Historical Library inquiry to bentley.ref@umich.edu re: James B. Griffin papers) - Donaghe pre-1635 resolution: Y-DNA Big-Y test on a male-line Donahoe descendant (~$449 FTDNA) - Coulbourne English origin: Pontefract parish-register evidence - Marjorie Fluor Moore 1983 memorandum (Dr. Jacob Woodrum's Tennessee Bible transcription)

Oral-history cluster (Susan + Paulette): - Alvin Read's name and biography (only Susan and Paulette would know) - The remaining Bull-side aunts and uncles (Joseph Saples Bull's children other than Fannye, Arthur Clyde, and Susie Elizabeth) - The Bull farm loss specifics — which sibling lost the parcel, immediate trigger - Letters or papers from Paul "Dada" Donahoe in family-paper archives - The "Caylor as Norman-English" family tradition's provenance - Roy Dean's arrowhead collection — current location, condition, photographic inventory

A short methodological note

V2 has a research-discipline takeaway worth recording:

V1's methodological lesson — FamilySearch screenshots are a hypothesis, not a fact, until verified through the relationship-calculator descent path — was supplemented in v2 by a second principle: published abstract-level sources are a hypothesis, not a fact, until verified against the manuscript. Chalkley's abstract of Hugh Casslin Donaghe's 1809 will is internally consistent and useful for v2, but the manuscript will at Augusta County and the 1810 estate inventory would name enslaved people and specific land tracts that the abstract omits. V3 should pull both.

Both lessons are now baked into the engine skill (`3-reference/skills/genealogy-research/SKILL.md`) as Conventions #11 and #12. Future versioned whitepapers — v3 of Virginia Deans and Donahoes, or any other heritage project that comes through the engine — will inherit the conventions automatically.
